

Introduction to Statistics

There are three measures of central tendency. They are all different ways to state the typical value for a set of data.

The measure of spread that is used in this course is range.

